

OPEN GOLF.

Youngest man ever to win the Open over 72 holes Gary Player of South Africa received the most coveted trophy in the game after a great triumph.

Four rounds of Muirfield settled the hash of a lot of fine golfers, former winners Bobby Locke and Henry Cotton included. The Belgian ace, Flory Van Donck tied for second place with Fred Bullock, two strokes behind Gary Player. The Glenbervie Pro, Panton, averaged "fours" for four rounds. That big favourite of the crowd, Fred Bullock, played the open of his life, but couldn't do better than 74s for his last two rounds.

Bobby Locke never found anything like his true game.

Quereles, of Brazil, tried hard but too late.

A big crowd watched Fred Bullock on the last green. Just short with his first one.

He was down for a final round of 74. Gary Player did better, but had to wait two nerve-racking hours before learning he'd won! The golfing world applauds his magnificent victory!
