

FIRST NIGHT SEE STARS

59/60

In the West End, Show Business had the night of its life; a premiere attended by stars galore, in aid of the Actors' Orphanage. Sir Laurence Olivier arrived with Audrey Hepburn and her husband, Mel Ferrer. Almost everyone there was world-famous. Lee Remick and all of them in that unique audience (here's Eva Bartok) were supporting the charity dearest to the hear of the acting profession.

Sir Donald Wolfit brought a breath of the Shakespearean stage. Dame Edith Evans stars in the film having its premiere that evening. So does Peggy Ashcroft. It was an unusual experience for Jack Hawkins to be in the audience.

John Fraser ..... Ivonne Mitchell. The star of the film, Audrey Hepburn, with Sir Laurence and the film director Fred Zinnemann, received Sylvia Syms and the other guests, Leslie Caron and Margaret Leighton. An amazing night. Poor Audrey got something in her eye, but it wasn't serious.
