

THERE'S HAIR.

There was a hard day ahead for top models in Milan. They had to put the best possible face on, and how long it would be to the next meal, nobody knew. All because Europe's leading coiffeurs were staking their reputation in the international contest. Through the early stages, the girls prepared to be transformed, as only masters of hairstyles know how. The touch of the supreme artist shows how wrong women are when they say, "I simply can't do anything with it; I washed it this morning". Of course, you must have a little hair to start with.

Any woman can look equally marvellous. Just go to Italy with enough money and find the best Topsy Woocay.
