

MOSCOW: ACCENT ON PEACE.

"Pride of place" in Moscow's annual October Revolution parade was given to rockets, sputniks, etc. Voroshilov and Khrushchev and all the top Kremlin men of the moment no doubt wondered how the parade would impress the world. In other years the armed forces have dominated the march past. But now that Russia urges peace and disarmament, the troops take a back seat.

While the whole world congratulate Russia on reaching and photographing the Moon, the West hopes that Soviet peace moves aren't just propaganda.