

GLITTERING EVENT AIDS HOMELESS TOTS

The social set of Los Angeles joins with Hollywood celebrities at the famous Imperial-WAIF Ball to benefit the inter-country adoption program — founded in 1953 under the leadership of Jane Russell. She arrives with husband Bob Waterfield and the Richard Eagans. For the glittering event, where a new limousine is the door prize, there's again the glamorous touch of royalty. 17-year-old Princess Marie Cecillie of Prussia is guest of honor. Her parents, Prince Louis Ferdinand and the Grand Duchess Kira accompany the Princess, for whom this marks the "coming out." Affectionately known as "Puppi" (German for "little doll") the pretty brunette princess dances now with "Kookie" — as his fans call Edd Byrnes. Dancing for charity; so that needy children of Europe and Asia may find American homes.
