

LESTER FINDS A WIFE.

St. Marks, North Audley Street, with famous jockey Lester Piggott about to come under starter's orders in the Martimonial Stakes - or should I say Handicap? The best man was John Sutcliffe, an Assistant Trainer. Lester's father contributed to the general racing atmosphere, and the bride was pretty Susan Armstrong, daughter of the popular Newmarket trainer Sam Armstrong.

Lester Piggott was only 14 when he was seen to be on the threshold of genius. He is now 24 and since boyhood he's won two Derbys, most of the big races, and hundreds of winners all told. He's lived for racing, ever since he can remember.

He's a man now, a married man. No racing today; just the reception, then off to the airport, to begin the honeymoon in the South of France. He'll be back for the opening of the Flat Season. Susan, as a trainers daughter, appreciates that. And Lester? Happy as they make 'em, past the post with his own favourite.
