WOMEN'S FINALS

PATHE NEWS: 60/54

The Women's Final was between the holder, Maria Bueno, of Brazil (on the left) and Sandra Reynolds (South Africa). Maria now at this end.

In the first set Sandra made the champion go all-out. Maria could do nothing about this one.

Sandra Reynolds serving. Her opponent (nearest the camera) was having her hardest battle of the fortnight in this first set. Sandra's hopes ran high when another powerful smash was too good for Maria.

Sandra, at the far end, shot her bolt in the first set, and now Maria led five-nil in Set Two, and it was Match Point.

That's it. Maria Bueno is champion again.

There's nobody in women's amateur-tennis just now who can beat the dynamic 20-year-old Brazilian. The Duchess of Kent presented the Trophy.

The Wimbledon title and Maria Bueno, they're inseparable.
