CAMPBELL IS BACK.

Indestructible Donald Campbell, survivor of the most spectacular crash in motoring history, is home again. At nearly 400 m.p.h. Bluebird came to grief at Bonneville Salt Flats and its doubtful whether any onlookers thought the speed king would be alive when they got to the scene. That he was, Campbell owes to his safety harness and the car's tremendously strong construction. Both these factors may influence ordinary car design and make motoring safer.
