

5-208221
PATHE GAZETTE: 41/19. (DUBLIN)

WASHINGTON CREW PRACTISE

A row by any other name wouldn't sound so sweet to the huskies of Washington. They are out and about early for the busy season ahead, and coach Elrickson is proud of his gang. Well, they look good as they sweep past the ancient schooners. Thousands of rowing fans are backing them to repeat last year's triumphs. All these lads are candidates for the varsity boat. The big job is to pick a crew and reserves from many strong armed ^(fo'o's'le) focals. Like an Admiral of the Fleet, the coach watches points. They say he doesn't miss a stroke, he can't afford to if he does what he set out to do. Make Washington sweep the river. That's the sort of boat he wants to push out.