LORD MAYOR'S APPEAL.

The Lord Mayor of London is asking for a million pounds to save the victims of a nation's murder - the Murder of Hungary. The world has not forgotten how the people of Hungary fought for their freedom. Millions rejoiced when victory seemed in their grasp - and mourned with them when tragedy followed triumph.

Thousands died in the struggle against the Russian tanks and the secret police. But for the survivors, for the orphans, for the bereaved families, sympathy is not enough.

Across the border between Hungary and Austria, tens of thousands of refugees have escaped to freedom, but with a home, without a future - unless we help them. Though the Russians have closed the frontier, they still find their way across - men and women, who fought for their country, and children, who know nothing about politics.

These are the fighters we applauded, who would not give up; even schoolboys who faced tanks for rifles,. These children are the innocent ones; no one can blame them for what happened; but they are the first to suffer. Can you refuse to help them? Please give all you can;
