DICTATORS MEET AT BRENNER PASS.

Signor Mussolini arrives in Brennero a village in the Brenner Pass, to meet the man who has caused more misery in the world than any other, since history began. The two Dictators shake hands, after which the DUCE greets Ribbentrop, (the man who said Britain wouldn't fight).

The discussions between Hitler and Mussolini took place in a private railway compartment. What was said, in their two and a half hours conversation, can only be a matter for conjecture. But its a pretty good guess, that Hitler did not have things all his own way. More hand raising, and the visitors prepare to leave. Another handshake, and Hitler is on his way home, a wiser if not a happier man.
