FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

A Mammoth liner steams over the horizon, into South Africa's Table Bay. Her Four funnels makes her instantly recognisable, she's the Aquitania... one time Queen of the Atlantic. But a week later, Cape Town receives an even more distinguished visitor, the Queen Mary. She crosses from New York to Cape Town without any escort of warships. And that's just about as great a triumph as the Queen Elizabeth's Historic ~~maiden~~ maiden voyage across the Atlantic. So if you want news of the Queen Mary, here she is.

Meanwhile... half way across the world... in Los Angeles.... the British Cruiser Caradoc comes to in refuel and load supplies. The people of Los Angeles marvel at her mighty armaments. Her big guns.... her anti aircraft guns.... her torpedo tubes and depth charges.

So this is what we mean by the freedom of the seas, freedom to roam unmolested, keeping the sea lanes open... that the vast resources of our Empire may continue to flow into our war effort.
