TURKISH MINISTERS SEE THE NAVY AT WORK.

Important visitors from Turkey go to Portsmouth... to spend a day with the Navy. And "with the Navy" on this occasion means watching men being trained...for the complicated machinery that makes up a modern battleship.

The Turkish Visitors climb into a gun turret... which is a full-size replica of that on a warship. Inside they see the breach of one of the largest types of naval gun.

Then they watch a fully trained gun crew at work... and you can marvel with them... at the superb action of these men. Watch their speed... how they interlock,... without any man getting in the other's way.

It's the sort of action that beat the Graf Spee in the battle of the River Plate..... that has already sunk almost a third of Hitler's Navy. It is on men like these that the Royal Navy relies... to maintain its mastery of the seas.
