

THE HUNS HAVE PASSED THIS WAY.

We can never be too often reminded....of what we are fighting against.....We can never see too many pictures....of German destruction wrecked on the open towns of Northern France. Sometimes it's their bombers swooping from the sky. Often it's their parachutists.....out for a maximum of killing and destruction.....before they are captured and shot. Another Maternity Hospital....which seems to give the Nazis special pleasure in destroying.

Another church bombed.....from which the figure of the crucified looks down on a heap of ruins.

From the cottage by the roadside....to the mansion and the factory..... all are seared with the mark of Nazi Warfare.

Here in one continuous picture is a street in Northern France.

There is not one roof left. There is hardly a wall standing.

Not one square inch that is not covered with wreckage.

This is the mark of the hun
