THE KING SEES THEM "GO TO IT".

His Majesty visits one of our great arms factories, to see for himself how Mr. Herbert Morrison's "Go to it" policy is operating. The workers do not cease working, as they would have done in the old days. Every minute counts; in fact, in this workshop they're working two twelve hour shifts, seven days a week. When he leaves the workers find time in their lunch hour to give the King a cheery send-off.
