HIGH COMMISSIONER VISITS AUSTRALIANS.

When Mr. Stanley Bruce visits men of the second A.I.F., the Diggers live up to their name as they make their High Commissioner quite at home at their station in the South of England.

After passing his cigarette case round among the boys (and after getting it back) he voiced the opinion of all of us by saying how glad we are to have them in England.

Later, Mr. Bruce had a word of cheer for several of the lads who are temporarily off the active list. There's no truth in the report that he ate their grapes!
