WATER SKIING

Way down in Nassau in the Bahamas, the water skiing season is in full swing and girls as well as men water babies take it in tow for a dash round the blue seaboard. Mother's bouncing babies are having the time of their lives. Past old Port Montague flash the human streaks of lightning, the faster the pace and the greater the rocking the more they like it. All water skiers don't manage to stay the course, now there are only three, but look at the young amazon in the middle, she's on top of the world.
