HEAVY GEAR.

Somewhere in the North, troops are taught to handle the new types of vehicles brought into being by this age of machinery. Renewing tractor-bands is an awkward kind of job, but it is soon accomplished. Heavy cars are manoeuvred as easily as the lighter ones, and the powers that be don't select the best roads for them !

The transportation of heavy artillery is one of the important items in the curriculum of this school. Land or water, it's all the same. When the army is on the move, if they can't go over a river, they go through it.
