

KING AND QUEEN IN RAIDED AREAS.

The arrival of Their Majesties on another visit to raided areas, is the signal for a spontaneous welcome from their friends.

Amid the wreckage of working class flats, the King and Queen move among scenes of heartrending suffering. Men working on the ruins of their homes, pause to tell their experiences to their King and Queen.

Another incident where the finest civilian soldiers ever known calmly talk with their revered leaders in the midst of war at its worst.