PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S INAUGURATION.

An impressive cavalcade of America's fighting services heads the procession to the Capitol, as, for the first time in American history, a President of the United States proceeds to his third inauguration. On the eve of his 59th birthday, Mr. Roosevelt achieves a distinction no other American has attained. Thousands cheer as he rides behind the flying wedge of a motor cycle escort. Surrounded by cars full of Secret Service men he's more heavily guarded than ever before.

The President's car turns into Pennsylvania Avenue on its journey to the great Capitol building. The climax of this historic occasion comes when President Roosevelt takes the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Hughes.

The President now addresses the Nation with his momentous inaugural message.

At the newly convened 77th Congress, a message of profound import.
