ATLANTIC BASES AGREEMENT.

In the Cabinet Room at No. 10 Downing Street, Mr. Churchill greets Mr. Winant, the American Ambassador. They are here to sign the Agreement by which Britain leases Atlantic bases to the United States.

Mr. Churchill introduces a novel touch to the proceedings by using four special fountain pens upon which are engraved the names of the American signatories. These he presents in turn to Mr. Winant, General Malony, Commander Biesecker and Mr. Fahy, who will surely treasure them as souvenirs of an historic occasion.

The lease is for ninety-nine years. ~~Exceedingly~~ No doubt by that time the war will be over. There's at least one who believes it!
