

5-112800

THAT OTHER WAR.

Japanese transports steam ominously through Asia's troubled waters as Nippon's forces press southward ever close to Singapore.

In typical Axis style, planes blast the way for the ground troops with a terrific bombing attack on a helpless town.

Again Tokyo claims a victory - but each succeeding triumph of ruthlessness only feeds the flames of Chinese resistance.