NEW WATER SPORT

At the Pacific coast off Los Angeles they are trying out the new paddle polo. The referee throws in the ball and two teams compete for the championship of the West. The idea is to stay on the paddle and not to land in the drink. The goalies are very busy men. He saved that one but he is up against some really tough water babies. Get a load of this and that's a goal. Crafty, rafty work in the final chukka, the game's a good one even if it is all wet.
