CLOTHES AND THE MAN.

During his visit to Canada Mr. Churchill's Press Conference at Ottawa was attended by Journalists from all over the Dominion. Knowing the Prime Minister's liking for hats, he was presented with a fur cap, a gift from Mr. MacKenzie King. Mr. Churchill likes that fur cap. We can imagine him comparing it with the one Mr. Eden got in Moscow.

There's a time and place for everything, so the fur cap got its first airing at the Royal Canadian Air Force Training School at Uplands Field where the Premier meets finished Aviators who will soon see action overseas.

When Mr. Churchill was in Washington he gave a special display of his Siren Suit for the benefit of Mr. Harry Hopkins, and those ever inquisitive individuals - newsreel and press cameraman. Perhaps Sir, you'll show us how it fastens.

Ah yes, you zip it. Would you mind repeating that.

Thank you Sir, May I say it fits you like a glove.
