JUST LIKE MOTHER.

Oh boy, if only they could cook! Not so fast there; you ain't seen nothing yet. These WAAFS can cook, and they're make a good WAAF for someone. Come into the classroom and meet some of the girls studying how to cut up meat. Do they know the answers? Why, it's a carve up.

To be a WAAF cook in the R.A.F., you've got to come clean. Dirty hands just don't get by.

In the pastry cooking section at this training centre, they can turn on quite a range of cakes and buns. Yes, just like Mother used to make before she started making shells.

Now here's an interesting little gadget which every home should have - ~~Pump~~ Potato peelers. Instead of a fatigue party slogging over a pail of spuds, they bung the murphies into these automatic machines, and before you can say "Darling Sergeant" the pommes de terre are rolling out allready for the saucepan.

Married men may know how it feels to sample the first meal.

But not so these boys! A lot of training has turned out first class cooks and burnt offerings are not on the menu.
