TOWN FOR SALE

Town for sale, including Post Office, private house, major road and general store. It sounds like a barracks, doesn't it. And here are some of the jobs that go with it, any offers? The town is Millican, Oregon and William Rahn the outgoing tenant will sell his groceries to the incomers. When the new owner tires of people he can toy with petrol at the gasoline station, and there is an airport to look after just to save the new man from getting stale. Bill Rahn is fireman too and he can put out a fire as easy as we put out the cat. Oh, yes, and he is the Police Chief but so far he has never arrested himself. For a sideline this gay old dog is a dog-catcher. So there you are and when you have bought the town you can paint it red.
