

PATHE GAZETTE: 42/104. (DUBLIN)

POP XMAS PLAYS HIS PART

Exit reindeer, enter tank. Pop Christmas is on the peace farm. Near his camp there's an important job of work to do and you can trust Pop to do it properly. You see, the kids who live near the camp still believe in Santa Claus, at least that's what they told the troops, so the troops do their bit. The boys are in the bag so what does it matter if Pop pops up from a tank or pops in from a chimney. Pop's not jumping off for nothing you can be sure, the old gentleman's going to fix something. I wonder what it can be? He's full of tricks and toys, you know, and this must be a surprise treat, better still it's a surprise tree. Come on you fellows, just wade in and grab. Was ever a Santa so generous. Christmas only comes once a year, so he's got to get busy in a very short time. If the lads have their way, but they are having their way aren't they? He's brought this for you sir.