

CRICKET AT LORDS.....exclusive.

A shadow of the old peace time Test Matches; England facing the Australian bowling in the Pelham Warner versus Royal Australian Air Force match at Lords. Ten thousand cricket fans recall the keenly contested games for the Ashes as they watch Holmes and Wyatt put up a stand of 68. Here is Wyatt making a scoring stroke.

Once that partnership had been broken, the Australian bowling was on top. The Aussie Air Force was putting the ball dead in the Target area. At the tea interval the score-board showed a total of 201 for Sir Pelham Warner's team. Any success the Aussie bowlers had gained, was let down by their batting. Seven wickets fell for six runs. An unhealthy position which Miller did something to rectify by knocking up 45.

There goes Miller's off-side stump to the bowling of G.O. Allen.

Long before the last wicket fell it was obvious that the R.A.A.F. could not hope to pull the fat out of the fire. Sir Pelham's eleven made a relatively easy win by 101 runs.
