TITLE. SAFETY IN THE AIR.

Picture.:- The parachute is tucked away under the tail of the aeroplane which takes off to carry out this very daring experiment from a height of two thousand feet.

Watch the right hand plane ! The parachute is released as the engine stops. In a few seconds it opens to its fullest extent and takes the weight of the one-ton plane which swings below the parachute, a dead weight. Slowly, it is lowered towards the earth, its plucky pilot sitting in his cockpit just waiting to see what happens -- but nothing serious occurs, beyond a broken propeller. Which is, of course, infinitely preferable to the crash --

--which must have occurred but for this big parachute. Maybe every aeroplane will carry a parachute like this some day !
