Picture.:- The proceedings open. First comes the Union Jack, and then the splendid little ponies are paraded before the forty thousand spectators.

The Stars and Stripes, representing the holders, follows.

Fortunately the weather was fine for the match.

Here's the British team -- Balding, Lacey, Roark and Guinness.

The Americans are -- Pedley, Hopping, Hitchcock and Guest.

The Britons played a brilliant game from the start. Roark and Lacey kept Hitchcock riding hard all the time.

The match is described as one of the fastest ever played.

Splendid work by the Britishers results in early scoring for the challengers.

The big crowd was thrilled by some -- of the exciting dashes in the match. See this ! as thrilling as a horse-race ! Good work, sirs !

Here's some more splendid play in which the American team work --

--enables them to ride down the Britons and add another goal to their score.

You never saw better polo than this -- for the very good reason that better polo never has been played. And that, is a considered opinion.
