TITLE.:- COLONEL, THE DUCHESS.

Picture. :- On arrival the charming Royal Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment is presented with a bouquet of white roses, emblems of the battle of Minden, in which the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry -- then the Fifty-first -- took part 172 years ago. Her Royal Highness then inspects her troops and watches the march past -- which, by the way, is carried out in the light-infantry quick step of 132 per minute. The Duchess expressed admiration for the men, but who's to say that the admiration of the men for their Colonel-in-Chief wasn't even greater ? Three of the heartiest cheers that were ever cheered go a long way to prove it, anyhow.

A very happy day for all concerned. It will be a long time before the Men of the K.O.Y.L.I. forget Minden Day, 1931.
