

138523-2

(5).

TITLE.:- NEW BOULEVARD.

Picture.:- The rotten weather fails to damp the spirits of the scouts who cheer Sir--

--Granville when he opens the new street. XXXX The Australian Commissioner first begs to be excused for keeping his hat on, as though, there is plenty of wool in Australia, he now has little on his head ! XXXX True enough, Sir Granville ! XXXX The new thoroughfare cuts right through the heart of the-- --City, and cost nearly half a million pounds. XXXX Although--

--the citizens of Hull are as loyal as any other city, you couldn't blame them if they wish the weather were not quite so typically English on this occasion ! XXXX

The grand new thoroughfare is fittingly inaugurated by a --

--Pageant of Transport, headed by a Chariot, a facsimile of the vehicles in use in the dim distant days of the Romans. XXXX That "Bobby" is a slight anachronism, what ?

The parade takes us through the centuries, showing how people got about in their day;--

--right up to how they will to-morrow ! (If they've the money !)
Anyway I hope the weather improves !