A VISIT TO HER NAME-TOWN - - H.M.S. Milford pays a friendly call on Milford Haven, where she receives a civic welcome. -S. Wales-

Picture.:- His Majesty's Ship "Milford" pays a visit to her--

--name-town. The sea is rather bumpy, but that doesn't stop Milford Haven--

--folk from seeing what the town's special stake in the British Navy is like. Mr. J.H.--

--Thomas, J.P. accords the ship's officers and men a civic welcome on behalf of the-- --towns-people. A detailed tour of the ship is part of the program which is to wind up with -- --a luncheon given to the naval visitors at a local hostelry by the name--

--of the "Lord Nelson". Very appropriate ! Oh ! A piece of silver--

--plate is also under consideration as an acknowledgement of the signal naval honour done to the town. All--

--this excitement must be recovered from in eighteen hours--

--when the Milford has to start on her maiden voyage to South Africa, and "orders is orders" !
