

HAVEN FOR SHIPPING - - Torrential rain mars opening of £20,000 extension to Anstruther Harbour.

-Scotland-

Picture:- The cutting of this tape officially opens Anstruther's new haven for shipping. Heavy-- --rain makes the new pier almost as wet as the Harbour. Mrs.

MacIntosh, J.P., wife of the Clerk of the Harbour Commissioners heads the ceremony, and she is-- --supported by Mr. W. Anderson, former Secretary-of-State for Scotland, and Mr. Hogarth, Chairman of the Scottish Fishery Board. The Harbour extension--

--has cost twenty-thousand pounds. In its improved form more secure shelter is offered for the-- --lives and prosperity of those who go down to the sea in ships.

The Scottish coasts claim a fairly heavy toll of fishing craft. Harbour improvements on these coasts often mean life-saving improvements.
