HARBINGERS OF SPRING - - Millions of spring flowers in bud and bloom herald the approach of springtime in the West Country.

-Penzance-

Picture. :- Even at this time of the year, England has a 'Golden West'. At Penzance, daffodils and narcissi spring--

--up in profusion. As the buds will not burst quickly enough out-of -doors, for-- a week or so, the hidden flowers are gathered, taken into glass-houses, and left there to-- --reveal their white and gold. The recent spell of frost was the first to touch Land's End--

--for many years, but despite that, there are flowers in plenty. There's an awful !

Here is Veronica in full bloom. I refer to the plants !

All these of course are cultivated specimens, but even now in--

--field and hedgerow, gorse and snowdrop are shining jewel bright. Spring--

--hands her infant blossoms on the trees, roaked in-- --the cradle of the Western breeze, and very charming, too !
