PAGEANT OF THE PAST - - Picturesque progress of the City Fathers on the occasion of the election of London's 745th Lord Mayor - - Alderman C.H.Collett.
-Guildhall-

London City relives its past. The ancient pageantry is reawakened by the Lord Mayor's ceremonial arrival at the Guildhall.

(FANFARE).

The traditional custom of electing the present Lord Mayor's successor on Michaelmas Day is the event,--

--and there's the gentleman himself. Alderman Charles Henry Collett. Following --

--him in procession is Sir Percy Greenaway, whose retiral is now drawing near. Those bouquets carried by the Sherriffs are made of sweet-scented herbs. A relic of the days when London's--

--streets smelt like - - oh ! worse than than - - and sanitary--

--inspectors didn't poke their official noses into unsavoury matters.

Charles Henry Collett, Knight-Alderman and glove-maker of the City of London has been unanimously elected to be--

--Lord Mayor for 1934. Sir Percy Greenaway--

--is centre, - - Alderman Collett on the right, to whom our congratulations !
