

NEWS IN BRIEF.

- (1). Picture.:- The Reverend Mr. Wellesley-Orr, of Kingston Hill, has proved that one may become--
- famous overnight. From the pulpit he offered free, gratis, and for nothing--
 - a sock on the jaw to anyone who said he wasn't--
 - a man because he preached religion. So if anyone wants a sock on the jaw -----
- (2). Picture. London transport purposes keeping sections of its underground lines--
- clear of frost and ice by this--
 - new gear, which first cuts any ice off the rails and--
 - then brushes it clear. An anti-frost fluid ensures that ice will not form again for some time. This is the newest aid for getting us to the office before the typist leaves for lunch.
- (3). Picture. Members of the Scottish Police Federation attend a memorial service to their fallen comrades. The ceremony is to be held at the Scottish National war memorial, Edinburgh Castle. At their head marches--
- Brigadier-General R.N. Dudgeon, H.M. inspector--
 - of Constabulary for Scotland, who with Chief-Constable Ross lays--
 - a memorial wreath at the feet of the shrine.
- (4). Picture.:- Pelling for the German General Election was conducted on--
- almost American lines. Everywhere was placarded with slogans of the new regime.
 - Even trains exhorted voters to go to the poll and say 'Hah !'. In fact--
 - everybody was instructed in every way possible--
 - to say 'Yah!', and very few--
 - said 'Hein !'

And to-day there are least sixty-million 'Yes' men in Germany.
