Easter at Rome. Pope Pius XI celebrates the festival with solemn benediction. Carried--

--between the immense crowds of worshippers, who kneel as he passes, His Holiness is taken-- --to the Church of St. Peter. In this sacred edifice, three-hundred-thousand devout Catholics from all corners--

--of the world await his coming. First Blessed John--

--Bosco is to be canonised for his work in founding--

--the Salesian religious Order. Later the Pope bestows--

--a solemn benediction upon the assembled multitudes beneath him. With these-- --celebrations the Holy Year is ended. The appearance of His Holiness upon the-- --balcony was signalised by tremendous outburst of acclamation.
