

(1). Picture.:- "Water, water, everywhere", - - especially in the wrong places. The River Mole has burst its banks at Cobham, Surrey, and those who swim get--

--home first. And those who can only walk, have a fine--

--excuse for not going home at all. In mid--

--summer the River Mole was dry. Now--

--nothing could be wetter, not even the--

--man to went to a tap--

--room expecting to get a bath. The--

--dispised push bike--

--becomes more useful than ever as a means of transport. Well, I hope the water--

--will subside, but a dry holiday is very dull.

But this should not be dull.

Jackie Glicken, dwarf, 3 feet short, is marrying Mildred Lonti, fat lady, who weighs thirty--

--stones. Mildred first picked up Jackie in a circus. Now she picks him up--

--any time and place she feels like it.
(NATURAL SOUND).

And how, well I don't know.

(3).

It seems as impossible as--

--these figures look. Phantoms of the-- --mornning after the-- --night before. Companions of the pink rats with--

--straw hats on. Broadway's-

--thanksgiving day procession--

--gives the kiddies, black and white, the-- --thrill of their lives. 300-,000 children watch this and--
