

ROUGH GOING.

IN SCOTTISH CAR TRIAL.

Picture:-

Sixty competitors start, or attempt to start,--
--on the Scottish Sporting Club's trials. Some of them--
--get quite a long way by ploughing, wading, or half-swimming through mud--
--and splashes. Cars must all be equipped with-- --a water proof paddler. The baby cars are carefully counted, so that none will go under, and not be missed. The-- --mud is as thick as Flanders at thaw time. Up-- --to the axles, and then some, sometimes. Many have to appeal for help.

Here's one come to the end of a perfectly awful day. Luckily--

--there's a crowd at this-- --test hill at Humble to ginger--
--up horse power with man power. Still some slip-- --along nicely, and slither home, carrying a ton or so of mud as evidence that they have really been.
