SCHOOL OF THE SEA.

NORWEGIAN TRAINING SHIP AT LEITH

This is the good ship "Statsraad"----- ---Lekkuhl" ...at least thats what it--- STARRAAD
---looks like. The name I mean. And its bound to--- ---be good because its filled with boys who are only--- ---training to become sailors. It is a Norwegian training ship on a training cruise carrying two hundred and fifty cadets aboard.--
----They are not yet old enough to have a wife in every port so when they called-----

-----at Leith, they were content to splice-----
----the mainbrace and think of the girls they'd left behind them and generally behave like sailors dont. The ships bell---
----calls the cadets to boat drill----- ---On the journey over, the gale did its ----- ---worst to make the lads throw up---- ---everything, and decide to be anything but sailors. It didn't quite succeed-----
----because they're still going to be sailors - and good luck to them.
