HIS MAJESTY REVIEWS.

AIR DEFENCES.

For many years, Britain's Army and Navy have had their royal reviews. The newest arm of the fighting services, the Air Force, now comes into its similar own. Wiltshire aerodrome is-----

----- the concentration base of British air might. Flying over it it makes a remarkable picture, these three hundred and sixty war machines of the skies lying wing tip to wing tip like large-c-----

-----white bats resting on the earth, EFFECT-----

-----The car bringing His Majesty the King arrives. With him are the Prince of Wales-----

---and the Duke of York, all in uniforms of Air Force blue-----

-----EFFECTS (National Anthem) THREE SHOTS.

-----The King moves over to inspect the guard of honour of young recruits from the----- ----Uxbridge depot. Sir Robert Popham Brocke has already handed-----

----to His Majesty the parade state. This----- ----means that the King has for----- ---the time being taken over command of his Air Force parade of two thousand two hundred men and-----

---three hundred and sixty machines. Fighters, bombers, reconnaissance and coastal defence planes. The greatest concentration of-----

---air-war machines ever seen by-----

---the taxpayers who are paying for them. His Majesty is now proceeding to the car which will take him along the five miles route of inspection-----

-----He will pass-----

----there before squadrons of the best fighting aircraft-----

---in the world and drawn up before them stand many of the world's best pilots and aircrewmen.

PART TWO

11 The planes are drawn up in a -----
-----vast curve formation. There are eight lines of them. In----- ---fact, looking through them from the front they appear to recede---
---into infinity. The point-----
-----where His Majesty got out just now was one of five-----
-----at which presentations of officers-----
---are being made. EFFECTS-----
---The King showed great interest in many----- --- of the devices, mostly secret, which are features of----- ---these modern engines of destruction. Devices which, of course---
---we were not permitted to photograph. I haven't mentioned that there are some one hundred thousand people here to see this piece of history enacted-----
---Many arrives last night and slept in their cars to avoid the--- ---day's road crush EFFECTS-----

EFFECTS TWO SHOTS

The real row-making, ear bursting part of the show is just approaching. The planes are-----
-----now starting to warm up-----
---prior to flying past-----
---His Majesty at Duxford.

EFFECTS TO END.

THREE

At Duxford saluting base His Majesty joins the queen and the Duchess of York, who have travelled by special train from London. The King will salute each group of squadrons as they pass the base.
