NEWS IN BRIEF.

Picture:- "Stands Scotland where she did ?" someone once doubtedly asked. Well, she does ! And the Strathallan Gathering proves it. Bagpipes can still thrill the Scots pulse to hurry a beat, and Scots brawn can beat the world in tossing the caber - - although I doubt if the world minds much ! E.
 Anderson, a weel kent face, takes that event.

Alastair Stuart shook things up a bit by heaving a 16-lb hammer 125-feet.

Clark and Anderson, champions of Cumberland style wrestling meet with pleasure, are locked affectionately in each other's arms for a few minutes, before Clerk
 bounces Anderson, takes a rest, and the prize.

Picture:- Portsmouth welcomes the Duke of York on his visit to launch Britain's Navy Week. The deck of the historic 'Victory' is chosen for the ceremony.

A very fitting location. As I went down, the road was packed with streams of cars all heading for Portsmouth. And the city itself was really alive with excitement.

In an inspiring, but by no means flag-wagging speech, His Royal Highness opened the Week, and the 'Victory' dressed ship in the old style, as in the time of the great human Nelson of ever-lasting naval memory. Armchair critics say the navy is weak.

Lads of the mess-deck reply with "Tell that to the Marines". "Oh Yeah!" , or "Urcha", according to taste.
