(A). Picture.:- For years, and years, this ferry has operated between Stirling and a village which has the name of Cambuskenneth, and now a fine new bridge has put paid to the old flat bottomed tub's job, and pedestrians may walk over the waterway. Provost MacIntosh, of Stirling, opens the Bridge, giving and receiving congratulations. So he should ! It is a free walk over now.

(B). Picture.:- Weddings are always news, but not always headline news. This ceremony at Westminster Abbey is.

Thousands of people trod on each other's feet to get a glimpse of the bride, who becomes England's youngest Duchess. Lady Mary Crewe-Milnes is only twenty. The Duke of Roxburghe, her husband to be, in a minute or two, now in fact, is twenty-two years of age. The press of people is tremendous, as the bride and bridegroom re-appear. Ladies' fashion note, the bride's dress is of heavy white crepe, with veil of white tulle, surmounted by a halo of silver twined orange blossoms.

All happiness to the Duchess, and her Duke.
