

The Royal Yacht Britannia was anchored in the Clyde for the series of regattas of the Clyde fortnight.....when the yacht clubs had some exciting racing, in conditions that varied between squalls and mild breezes. Among those taking part in the events was the Duke of Edinburgh, in his Flying Fifteen Coweslip.

U.S. WARSHIPS.

Imposing visitors to Britain are ~~from~~ battleships and destroyers of the United States Navy --- led by the giant Iowa, the flagship of Rear-Admiral McManes. The Admiral came ashore at Portsmouth to be welcomed by Admiral McCreedy, Commander-in-Chief, Portsmouth.....and to visit Nelson's flagship Victory. We, too, welcome these boys of the American Fleet --- far from home on Independence Day.

RUSSIANS AT CENOTAPH.

Also in Britain are these representatives of the Red Army --- Russian soldiers who are giving a season in London. Led by their commanding officer, they laid a wreath on the Cenotaph in Whitehall.

POZNAN WITNESS.

Here is Mr Charlie Baker, an American, telling in Berlin what he saw in the Polish riot city of Poznan.
