

A parade of the Old Surrey and Burstow Hounds was a preliminary, in the opening of the International Horse Show at London's White City --- followed by the competition for ponies in single harness.

In the show-jumping sections --- this is an entry from Ireland --- many nations had come to compete in Britain, including riders from the recent Olympics. This is Aherlow, ridden by Colonel Llewellyn.

At the evening performance, a mounted band led competitors round the arena --- and this was the occasion of the official "welcome home " to the British team, following their success in Stockholm.

Britain's Olympic riders received awards from the Duke of Edinburgh, who is President of the British Horse Society.....Golden Spurs and whips, as a mark of their success in gaining Olympic Gold and Bronze Medals.
