President Eisenhower has to solve domestic problems as well as international problems in his second term of office. One of the gravest is now staring him right in the face. Parts of Texas and several other states of the American southwest have turned into a dust-bowl --- the result of a drought that has lasted over seven years. How to get water for this part of Texas alone is reckoned to be a billion-dollar question.

ZOO SANATORIUM.

The first stage of the rebuilding scheme at the London Zoo provides in Regent's Park ~~xxxxxxx~~ a sanatorium and quarantine section for animal patients --- and even the Press had to wear hygienic masks for opening day.

Up-to-date equipment, ~~xxxxxxx~~ includes an infra-red lamp at which a parrot is receiving treatment. And here's the X-Ray room, where one of the monkeys is being examined. There's no doubt that, although these animals must spend their lives in captivity --- it's captivity with every care and comfort.

ISRAEL WITHDRAWAL.

In accordance with the agreement with the Commander-in-Chief of the United Nations Police Force in the Middle East, Israeli troops carried out their withdrawal from El ~~xxxxxx~~ Arish.

In a brief ceremony, the Israeli flag was lowered from the balcony of the residence of the military Governor, and columns of vehicles and infantry evacuated the town --- to be replaced by units from Yugoslavia.

MUNICH CARNIVAL.

Munich Carnival began, as always, with the procession of the Carnival Prince and Princess --- on their way to enthronement at the German Theatre.

In private life the princess is an actress; and the prince is a merchant. His Carnival name is Prince Karl III. His real life name is slightly less romantic --- Herr Schmucker.

The Carnival motto is: Free and Easy --- but look out for trouble later. It's just coincidence that the princess's real name is Fraulein Stopp.
