

Eastertide being the first general holiday of the year, it's usually a time when the real news events take a holiday from happening; so our cameramen thought they'd go visiting some of the celebrities who used to be news. Taking it easy in the water at the London Zoo was Brumas, with her husband. Which may well surprise people who knew ^{about} Brumas at the height of her world fame and thought she was a boy.

Also at the London Zoo is Nikki, playing happily with his friend Rusk. Nikki, you will remember, is the bear-cub presented to Princess Anne by Mr Bulganin and Mr Khrushchev during their visit to Britain.

Nikki is the one on the swing. And it's usually Nikki that's ready for any kind of mischief that's going....only this time he's quite content to take things easy.....~~as long as he's got the seat,~~ until Rusk comes up to tell him the party line has been altered.

Over now to Poland --- and it's the same thing here, some tiny bear-cubs who've newly arrived at the Warsaw Zoo, have made the headlines; but they don't care whether they're news or not --- as long as the supply of milk keeps up.

A quick clean-up --- and they're ready for a short nap without a care in the world while the lady prepares the next meal. To sleep --- ~~perhaps~~ perchance to dream --- wow! Nightmare! Imagine this --- ~~even~~ when he visits the Zoo ~~he is greeted with nervousness~~ when did you get out? hey, bud!

Well --- this is a fairly common sight in Georgia in Russia --- the tiger who goes absolutely everywhere with his devoted companion, Margarita Nazarova. And --- wouldn't you guess? He's a back-seat driver!

Now from East Berlin we have received another story with an Easter flavour. This cat has been hanging around the chicken farm so long, the chicks just take him for granted.

It certainly is an ~~unusual~~ unusual set-up; and when the Mother hen comes around, she's none too pleased to find her daughters keeping such dangerous company. But even Mother had to admit that it wasn't until the singer showed up, that her daughters were gone girls.
